DEATH WEBSTER.

His One Hundredth Birthday—Meeting at Willard Hall To-Night.

To-day is the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Daniel Webster. He has been thought proper that a statue to his memory be erected within the limits of the National Capitol.

In furtherance of this object a movement has been set on foot by several prominent citizens to carry out the laudable desire. Last December letters were addressed to many of the leading gentlemen of New England asking them to co-operate in showing their respect and admiration of the character of the great statesman.

Favorable responses were received from a majority of the gentlemen addressed, and it is expected that the representation from New England will be large and influential. Mr. W. W. Webster, of New York, has been elected to represent the movement. Mr. Charles L. Loring, of New York, is the private secretary and intimate friend of the great statesman.

The meeting will be held at Willard Hall, at eight o'clock, to-night. The speakers will be Mr. Loring, Mr. Webster, and Mr. Loring. The program will be a reading of Webster's life and a discussion of his character.

There is no doubt that the meeting will be a success, and it is to be hoped that every admirer of Webster will manifest his or her sympathy by attending the meeting.
